Creative Writing Course Set For Fall Semester

Beginning next fall, a seminar-type course in Creative Writing will be offered at Loyola under the direction of Mr. Francis L. Christ of the English Department.

To cover both semesters and totaling six credits, the course is presented as an elective, and is open to next year's junior class and any other students who will be able to fit it in their regular class schedule.

Since the class is to be kept small, applicants for the course are subject to the approval of Mr. Christ.

Not a strict lecture course, it will accent productivity in writing. Mr. Christ says that through this course academic time will be allotted to students interested in writing, but who formerly lacked the time needed to write.

Students To Choose

Those in the course will decide for themselves what they will write; it can be poetry, drama, one act plays, short stories, personal essays, or even a novel. These works will then be discussed in class.

Having taught the course for three years in Evening College, Mr. Christ hopes that there will be some association between those in this course and the campus literary activities. He said: "What is produced may not be 'fine' writing, but it will be clear, interesting and vigorous writing."

Campus Clubs Elect For '60-61

Election returns are in for student activities officers for next year:

Green and Grey Club will have Dick Hauer, president; John Byrnes, vice president; Paul Karpers, secretary, and Bob Carey, treasurer.

In the morning the graduates will attend the Baccalaureate Mass celebrated by Father Beatty in the college chapel. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. J. Joseph Gallagher, Archivist of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Prior to the commencement exercises, senior ROTC cadets will be commissioned at ceremonies in Cohn Hall.

Honorary Awards

At the commencement proper, others to receive awards include J. Francis Damman, class of 1900: receiving the Carroll Medal and Rev. Joseph M. Kelly, S.J., of Loyola High School, who will be presented with the President's Medal. The Honorable John H. Thomas Briscoe, Lt. Colonel Edgar A. Cecil Curran, the Right Reverend Edwin L. Crout Leonard, and Dr. William Martin Nevins will receive Jubilee Medals.

Honored Guests

The Honorable J. Millard Tawes, governor of Maryland, and the Honorable J. Harold Grady, mayor of Baltimore will be present.

Speaker's Background

Dr. Kuttner who will receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, was born in Bonn, Germany. He earned his diploma in Law from the University of Berlin.

Lee Oration Contest Today

Six Loyola students will compete this morning at 10 o'clock a.m. in the Xavier Lounge for The Lee Gold Medal in Oratory.

Participants include: seniors, Bob Eisenzopf, Pat Cullen, and Nelson Cooney; juniors, Bob Goldsmith and Tom Curtis, and sophomore, John Baynes.

Founded by Mrs. Josephine Lee, the medal is awarded to the orator whose speech runs no more than five minutes and whose composition and delivery are exceptionally good.

Last year's winner was Pat Cullen who gave his speech on Mr. Charles M. Cohn, class of '97, a former member of the Advisory Board to the president of the college, and in whose honor Cohn Auditorium was named.

US Steel Grant

Loyola this week received a grant from the U.S. Steel Foundation; the amount was not disclosed.

The grant is part of the Foundation's program directed toward the improvement of educational quality and toward all segments of the public to increase their support of the nation's educational facilities, says Mr. Robert Blough, Chairman.

Coyle Faces The Lions

TKA Tourney

Seventy-some speakers from ten secondary schools in the Baltimore area will compete in the Eighth Annual TKA High School Tournament on campus tomorrow.

The contest is sponsored by the college chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honor forensic fraternity.

Extemp speaking and prepared oratory events will be held, with preliminary rounds in the morning, finals in the afternoon.

Catholic High won last year. Pat Cullen is chairman of the event.

Next Year In Preview

What does next year's Student Council hope to accomplish for the good of the students and the school? An answer to this question now is naturally somewhat vague and broad in its scope. Each member will strive to do his best in every situation; the overall purpose will be to unite the men of Loyola in mind and spirit. A genuine unity would make Loyola students a powerful force to be reckoned with in every respect.

In particular, several members of the 60-61 Council desire to limit the number of term papers that a student must do per semester. The limit proposed will be two papers per semester. We feel that such a rule will increase the benefit that the individual should receive from his own personal research. This, however, would not keep teachers from allowing students to do term papers for extra credit: such extra work might be a better criterion of the student's interest.

Another problem demanding much consideration is the abuse of the new Lounge. The continual abuse of the Lounge by crushing cigarette butts on the floor, littering paper everywhere and lying all over furniture is a glaring banner of the immaturity of part of the Student Body. (Card playing probably would be viewed in a more favorable light by the Administration if the area around the card tables did not look like the city dump at the end of the day.) Obviously measures to insure the care and protection of a handsome investment must be taken. If the Administration is forced to act, action might be drastic, i.e. close the lounge altogether. Rather than lose the comfort and convenience of the Lounge we feel that the students themselves should prove that they can act like men, and then they will be treated like men.

The Student Council welcomes the ideas of any student and is anxious to aid all the students in whatever way it is able. If we are to help the students, we must know their problems and these are only known if they are expressed.

Finale?

This is the final Greyhound of the 1959-60 school year. Except for the first month of school and the mid-term examination period, we put out the paper every Friday without fail. This is the first time in the history of Loyola, that the Greyhound has been published weekly and we are interested to know whether the students want us to continue this procedure next year.

We became a weekly publication for the purpose of greater communication between students. At that time communication was possible only by the Greyhound and the Daily Bulletin. Now with the Dean of Men's PA System, communication is easier. We ask the students to let us know whether they would like us to continue with our present system, or if they would prefer us to revert to the old bi-weekly edition and to concentrate less on news and more on features.

WE ASKED THE SENIORS

What Was Your Most Memorable Experience At Loyola?

BILL LOHNES: The most memorable experience that I can remember was the winning of the Mason-Dixon Conference during the 57-58 season by the swimming team. I was assigned to cover the event for the paper and was disappointed at what looked like a sure loss. Then in the last relay George Krapp surged ahead to win the meet by three points.

JOE WEBER: My most memorable experience was the decision to change my major from physics to business. This change enabled me to find my right place in the college and saved me many years of torture in a field for which I was not suited.

HARV KEENE: The thing I remember best was the day the Dean of Men issued his now famous "Hello" edict. This was on Friday 13, in Feb. of 59, and for days all you could hear was the "Hello" song.

JIM MOLLOY: When I came here as a freshman I entered a program designed to give me a B.A. in Physics. Six months later the Dean of Studies discovered that the college offered no such course, and made me change to a B.S. degree.

BILL CORCORAN: My most memorable experience was also my most embarrassing one. In my sophomore year we had a good chance of beating C.U. in a one mile relay race when I dropped the baton.

MIKE SNEERINGER: During the 57-58 basketball season I had just begun playing on the varsity team when I suffered an attack of acute appendicitis. This not only put me out for the rest of the season but I also had to make up the exams.

CLARKE BOWIE: The most memorable and most surprising experience I had during my four years was the first half of my junior year when I made the Dean's list. I had thought that the one subject that I needed was going to be bad, but luckily I just made it.

PHILIP FLYNN: During my sophomore year in R.O.T.C. I managed to march off 28 demerits in one half hour. I marched to Corcoran's Liquors, bought a fifth and returned it to the supply room. Somehow, I became exempt from the final exam.

TOM MURN: My most memorable experience was that in junior year I was made Editor of the controversial literary quarterly. This marked the second time within a decade that I had held this office, the first time being in my freshman year in 1951.

City Life

On Tuesday, May 17, an estimated 35% of the Loyola Student Body will be eligible to vote in their first state-wide election. The occasion is the Maryland Democratic and Republican Primaries.

These contests are held to decide the party candidates for the upcoming Congressional Election, Nov. 8, and to guide convention delegates in their choice of parties' Presidential nominees.

Candidates

Seeking the Democratic nod in Maryland are: Senators John Kennedy, Wayne Morse, and a Harford Rd. merchant. Voters can also send an uncommitted delegation.

This last feature was interjected because of the number of candidates, (e.g., Senators Humphrey and Symington) who did not file in the Maryland primary.

Vice President Nixon is unopposed for the GOP slate.

In the Seventh District race, which encloses Loyola, alumnus Herbert R. O'Connor, Jr., is attempting to oust four-time incumbent Samuel N. Friedel.

Mr. Robert Gerstung, Evening College instructor at Loyola, is on the GOP ticket in the third district.

the Watchdog

The Dean of Studies has a new secretary. Last week we erroneously credited the much improved appearance to the office of the Dean of Men. We want to go on record that the appearance of the office of the Dean of Men needs no improvement and that the appearance of the office of the Dean of Studies has improved, spectacularly.

Upon his return from a Florida vacation yesterday, Rol Sturm announced his plans for forming a lacrosse team. Although Rol has plenty of equipment, he is in desperate need of players. Since all the equipment is monogrammed he asks that only those with the initials L.C. apply.

Notre Dame asked us to thank all the mature young men who spent the evening playing cards last Friday.

Phil Flynn got his first Social Security check last week.

Editorials Res Novae

In Latin, Res Novae betokens not only new things but also revolution. Thus The Greyhound not only shows new things this year, but also revolution.

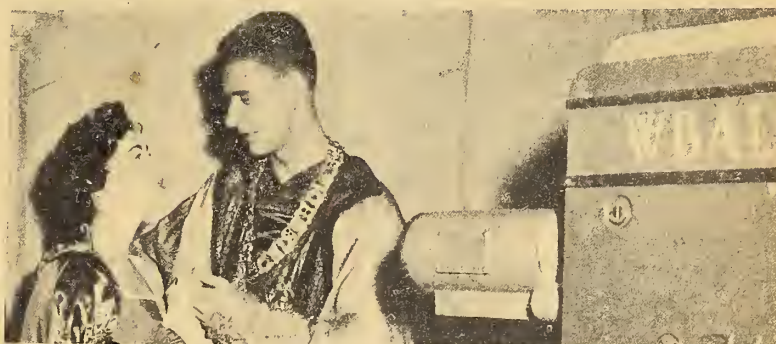

During its 32 year history at Evergreen, the newspaper has been published as a semi-monthly or bi-weekly. Speaking only for editors of the past three years it has been a dream kicking around editorial pates to publish weekly. This year at the urging of the new moderator and Dean of Studies, The Greyhound will "go to press" weekly.

We hope, by this more frequent appearance, to cover school functions better. To facilitate this appearance, we have reduced our size and ask the indulgence of the students for this change.

Our schedule this year calls for delivery every Friday during regular sessions. Look for a better, if not bigger Greyhound, then. J.M.M.

Social Fraternities

There is an annual event on the Loyola campus known as the "Fraternity Purge". We are now in the 1959-60 version.

Let us say at the start that The Greyhound has no close connections with any independent social organization and is neutral to the approval of them by the school administration. We do oppose a severe suppression of them.

Though at a non-resident college, such as Loyola, social fraternities might not be considered a useful good, we think that they can be considered a delectable good and are therefore a matter of taste. It has been a common experience that legislated taste has caused a great deal of ill-will and we feel that strong legislation on this point would cause more unrest and ill-will than any possible compensating avoidance of scandal.

Letters

Dear Sir:

It seems to me that some of your Greyhound editorials have lost their way and wandered from these pages onto the Daily Bulletin. The issues of this daily slander sheet I refer to are notably those of Nov. 24, 25, 30 and Dec. 1.

It is a shame that such an abuse has befallen an old tradition. It is also a shame that the once factual, often humorous, Bulletin has degenerated into a spiteful, malicious, not so humorous, organ of one man's individual opinions.

Mr. Editor, put the editorials back on page 2. Let the Bulletin again become an official organ of fact.

Lunch Counter

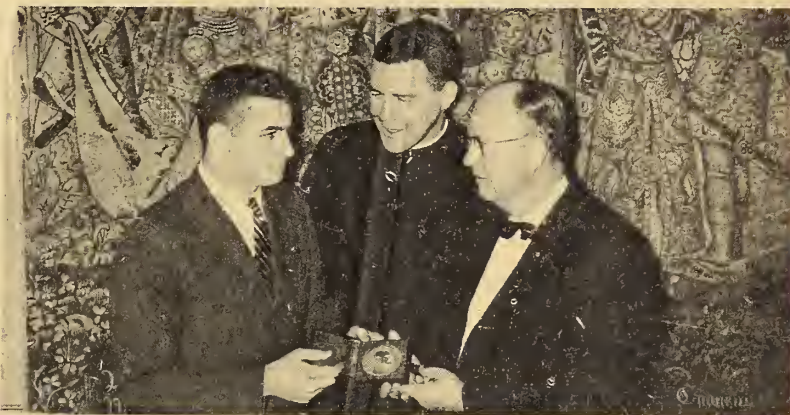

Last week, the Blue Jay restaurant was the scene of a sit-down strike similar to many occurring recently in the South. A group of students from Hopkins staged the strike in the hope that their fellow classmates would no longer be barred from eating with them simply because of their color. They were asked to leave. They failed to break down the color barrier of the particular restaurant, but they succeeded in their desire to make all of us aware of the problem.

The negro deserves integration not because he wants it but because he is the victim of injustice, and ironically, a victim at the hands of those strongest in their love and pride of a free and democratic nation.

The negro is as multi-sided as any man. He is good and bad, intelligent and ignorant, fat and thin, big and small. He must be judged — and treated — for his individual characteristics. To judge a man by his color is as futile as trying to distinguish a brave man by his size.

We have a moral obligation to tolerance and charity in our everyday life. It will be easier to judge the merits of a man if our vision is unclouded by color. And no trouble at all to have lunch with him

Pre-Med, Pre-Rabbi

JEFF STIFFMAN

Senior Jeff Stiffman has an unusual career ahead of him for a Loyola pre-med.

His marks have been excellent, and his interest in the sciences constant.

Unlike the other senior pre-meds, however, Jeff is going not to medical school but to rabbinical college, the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. There he will spend five years preparing to take a leading role in the Jewish community.

The first two years will comprise studies in the Hebrew language and basic Bible study. The Jewish people seek the norms for conducting their life from the Bible and especially the Torah, the first five books of the Old Testament.

The next three years are spent in a more penetrating study of the Bible and of the Talmud, the recognized commentary on the Pentateuch, and in classes of psychology and philosophy.

In the last two years, Jeff will share a small town synagogue with another rabbinical student as preparation for his actual ordination.

Then he will be a rabbi, a teacher who by virtue of his knowledge holds a high position in the Jewish community.

He will not be a cleric of the type of priest or minister, but a layman who knows more about the faith and thus can counsel and advise his fellow Jews.

Local Radio Hams Cover The Coast

Loyola hams (one "M") have made contacts as far north as Toronto, as far west as Indianapolis and as far south as Tampa this year in the Radio Club.

The chief ambition of the club is for each member to have either a novice or an intermediate license. A novice license permits the ham to operate on the 40 meter amateur band which confines the novices' range to the eastern half of the United States.

When the ham earns his intermediate license, he can broadcast on a wider frequency. He can contact foreign countries, ships in far-away oceans, and even hook his rig up to the telephone lines and handle long distance calls.

Rev. Joseph A. Panuska, S.J., '48 who will be ordained next month at Woodstock.

Rev. Joseph A. Panuska, S.J., '48, will be ordained to the priesthood at Woodstock College on June 19th. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Panuska of 2220 Jefferson St., and cousin of Mr. William McElroy, Jr.

Father Panuska graduated from the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute in 1945 and then entered Loyola College as a pre-medical student.

At Loyola he was active in debating and class affairs, played varsity tennis, was in the Alpha Sigma Nu and listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and was editor of The '48 Evergreen. He entered the Jesuits after receiving his B.S. cum laude in 1948.

In 1958, he received a Doctorate in Biology from St. Louis University.

Lacrosse Team Travels To Gettysburg For Last Game

Loyola's lacrosse team travels to Gettysburg today for their final game of the year. The Hounds will be shooting for their third win of the season against four losses and two ties.

Hofstra downed the Hounds by the respectable margin of 11-5 last Saturday. The New Yorkers jumped off to a 5-0 lead in the first quarter, but after this shaky start the Greyhounds found themselves and played this strong Hofstra team on even terms for the rest of the game.

Intramurals

Here at Loyola intramurals are a very important part of student activities. They provide an opportunity for a large portion of the student body to participate in athletics. Several teams are well organized and participate in all sports. Competition between these teams is often strong and this reflects favorably on school spirit.

Last year intramural director Nap Doherty instituted an award which would be given to the outstanding intramural athlete of the year. Pete Twardowicz, outstanding performer of the Vets, was the first recipient of this award.

Jerry Sibiski, who led the Mole-skins to the Intramural Basketball Championship and was chosen on the All Intramural Football Basketball, and Softball teams, is this year's Outstanding Intramural Athlete. Jerry averaged 10.5 points per game in basketball and in addition was considered as the ruggedest rebounder in the league.

In football Jerry was a member of the Moles defensive line, the ferocious five, and on offense he was a reliable pass-catching end. Jerry also slugged the ball for a .467 average in softball while performing flawlessly in centerfield.

Stack Burton breaks the tape in C.U. meet. Loyola was victorious.

Asher Gets 3 Again

Sophomore midfielder Bill Asher came through with his second three goal performance in a row to lead the Hound scorers, and freshman Marty Pilsch countered with two goals to round out the Hound scoring.

With one game remaining the Hounds have scored 55 goals and they have three men who have scored ten goals or better. This is a vast improvement over last year when the Hounds were only able to register 36 goals for the entire season.

Bill Asher and Jimmy Lamar are tied for the scoring lead with 12, and Marty Pilsch follows with 10.

Injuries Hamper Track Team In Championship Bid

"A real good year," says Coach Bill McElroy of this year's track team. And, considering the number of unfortunate breaks the Hounds had to endure, the coach's statement rings true.

The Hounds defeated Washington College, 67-54, in their first meet, with a little assist from the Hound baseballers. Wade Bowman and Nick Jackson, on lend-lease from Lefty Reitz, performed admirably for the Hounds. Bowman won the shot-put and Jackson took second in the 100 yd. dash.

Western Maryland was the Evergreeners' second victim by 62-59. The Hounds were toppled for the first time by Hopkins, 70-52, in their third start.

Perhaps the most exciting meet of the season was the Towson State meet. The Hounds were down by 27 points at one time and entering the 2-mile run were trailing the Teachers by 12. They won that event and proceeded to take the mile relay to nip the hosts by 61-60.

Tom Kenny displayed one of the greatest showing of "guts" of the year when he fell and severely cut himself, only to get up and run 330 yards to finish his lap.

The Hounds second loss against three victories was absorbed last Tuesday at the hands of Mount St. Mary's. The Mountaineers triumphed 91-31. Bill Corcoran was lost to the team in that one.

Pitcher Ray Short gets set to fire one in game with Johns Hopkins Tuesday. The Hounds won 3-1.

Hound Champ Chances Alive With Victory Over W-Md.

Loyola's baseball team (7-3) still has a chance to win the Northern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference provided that they sweep both ends of a double-header from Washington College, tomorrow at Chestertown and provided first-place Western Maryland (6-2) loses to either Mt. St. Mary's or Johns Hopkins.

LOYOLA, 5; WESTERN MARYLAND, 4.

On May 4 Loyola visited Westminster to take on league-leading Western Maryland in a must game for the Greyhounds. Loyola remained in competition by edging the Terrors, 5-4.

Pitcher Ray Short was outstanding for Loyola, coming back with only one day's rest to hurl the victory. Short showed heart, hurling the first eight innings until he was unable to go on. Phil Potter hurled the ninth and preserved the victory, although allowing a homer.

Loyola scored in the first when Nick Jackson and Dave Marshall walked and Ray Short singled.

The Terrors scored twice in the first on two walks, three errors, and a sacrifice fly.

In the fourth Loyola scored three times to move ahead to stay. Ron Seager walked and, when George Yurek sacrificed, pitcher Tony Wiles made a wild throw, putting runners on second and third. Dave Carney singled them home, and came around himself when Wade Bowman was safe on an error.

The Hounds scored an insurance run in the eighth to clinch the important victory.

Prospects Good For Next Year's Tennis Team

Loyola College's tennis team was headed for a very good season until disaster struck at mid-point.

First, Don Torres, the number one man for two years, quit the team after the Fordham match "to concentrate on studies." Then the number two player, Jim Fowler, became ill, further weakening the team. As a result of the loss of these two top players the team was simply outclassed in each match thereafter.

Hopkins Loss

Coach Vince Colimore felt that "we had a good chance of beating Hopkins here." He pointed out that his charges gave Hopkins a terrific battle before succumbing to the Blue Jays. As it was, Hopkins clobbered the Hounds, 8-0, here at Evergreen.

Jim Mohler

Freshman Jim Mohler has taken over the number one spot and has performed admirably. Dave Mulrooney, Tad Carper and Dan Michaelis have moved up to the two, three and four positions. Bill Knoche and Jerry Preis complete the six singles positions. All will be back next season.

Mohler Again

A good nucleus is there for a good squad next year. All starting singles players will be experienced in Mason-Dixon play and should therefore be a push-over to nobody.
